

Dear EARLI SIG1 member,

We would like to remind you about our first “SIG1 Summer School” that will take place on before the SIG 1 Conference in Munich on August 22-23. We are happy to announce that six reputed international scholars from the field of Assessment and Evaluation will serve as experts. These experts will provide junior researchers with specific feedback about their dissertation projects and present several workshops on different topics (e.g., data analysis, publishing). The experts are: David Boud, Gavin Brown, Eduardo Cascallar, Filip Dochy, James Pellegrino, and Mien Segers.

The “SIG1 Summer School” aims to:

- Provide a setting for participants to receive feedback and guidance on their current research and provide feedback to fellow PhD students;
- Provide a forum for discussing theoretical and methodological issues of central importance to research on assessment and evaluation;
- Provide the possibility to participate in specific content and methodology workshops (which will tailored to the participants’ needs if possible);
- Develop a network of junior and senior scholars in the field of assessment and evaluation across countries and continents;
- Support junior researchers in their effort to enter the SIG1 research community.

All information on how to junior researchers can apply and register is available here:

Please encourage the junior researchers in your department to apply for this “SIG1 Summer School” and to join our SIG 1 community.

Best Regards,

SIG1 Coordinators
